During the lifetime of Seyamma, the duties were being performed by a proxy. In 1873, Her Highness, the then Palace Controller recognized her claim to succeed to the Adhyapakam office, after her husband's death, in preference to the latter's brother. Seyamma having died in 1902, the following have come forward claiming the office -

1. Thapuliyachar, Seyamma's brother.
2. Annasawmy Ramanja Iyengar brother of Seyamma's husband, Srinivasa Iyengar.
3. A. Thirumala Iyengar, cousin of Srinivasa Iyengar's father.

Seyamma's brother has no claim. As she died without any issue, the office has to go to the reversioners and her husband's brother Ramanuja Iyengar being the nearest reversioner he is entitled to succeed to the office in preference to the cousin of her husband's father. ~~The~~ Under bill
